SECOND NATURE RESEARCH STUDY CONSENT FORM

One component of Second Nature Wilderness Program's evaluative process includes assessing outcome. Parents and children at Second Nature are expected to participate in a research study in conjunction with the National Association of Therapeutic Schools and Programs (NATSAP) Research and Evaluation Network. (www.natsap.org).

Participation in this study allows Second Nature to learn more about factors that may predict and improve treatment outcomes for clients receiving psychological services in the wilderness.

What does your participation in this study involve?

- You will be asked to fill out 5 questionnaires about your perception of your child's behavior and over-all mental health over the next year. You will receive e-mail reminders and instructions that will help you to do this. The forms and instructions can also be mailed to you if you'd prefer.
- Filling out these questionnaires will take you about 10 minutes each time.
- Your child will answer questions about such things as their relationships with others, their behaviors, attitudes, and moods, their personal strengths and weaknesses, and their thoughts about therapy.

What are the possible benefits of participating in this study?

- You and your child may benefit directly from participating in this study as a result of directly reflecting on therapeutic aspects and measures of change throughout enrollment. This awareness can contribute immensely to the client-therapist dialogue. At a more general level, it is hoped that through your participation, researchers will learn more about important aspects of treatment that can be used to improve the response of adolescents to wilderness therapy.

If you participate in this study, will it cost you anything?

- There is no cost to participate in this study.

Please note: Your consent to participate in this research is entirely voluntary, and your refusal to participate will involve no prejudice, penalty or loss of benefits to which you and your child would otherwise be entitled.

How will the confidentiality of your records be protected?

- Second Nature Wilderness Programs seek to maintain the confidentiality of all data and records associated with your participation in this research. All forms filled out at the study website will be stored securely and will be accessible only by approved Second Nature clinicians and administrators of this study. When the information is made available, it will contain no identifiable information. If paper forms are used, they will be locked securely at your child's program after they have been entered into the computer-based system described above.

Who should I contact if I have questions about this study?

- If you have any questions pertaining to this research study, please contact: Katie Massey at katiem@snwp.com or Dr. Landon Poppleton at landonp@nwfamilypsychology.com.
